DESCENDANTS OF GENERAL JONATHAN CLARK,
JEFFERSON COUNTY, KENTUCKY
1750-1811

By JOHN FREDERICK DORMAN, III
Louisville, Kentucky

The parents of General George Rogers Clark arrived in Kentucky in March of the year 1785 and since that time their descendants have been prominently connected with the history of the state. It is the family of General Jonathan Clark, elder brother of the Conquerer of the Northwest, which is here set forth.¹ None of the previously published accounts of this branch has covered the descendants thoroughly or in sufficient detail. While no genealogical record can be complete in all its parts, it is hoped that this article will bring forth from interested persons additions, and corrections which will be included in the later installments or will be filed in the archives of The Filson Club.

In The Filson Club History Quarterly of January, 1935 (Volume 9, No. 1, pages 1-34), Mr. R. C. Ballard Thruston published an article entitled "Some Recent Finds Regarding the Ancestry of General George Rogers Clark."² Searchers of the Clark ancestry are referred to it. The consideration of the present account begins with John Clark, father of Generals Jonathan and George Rogers Clark.

JOHN CLARK, son of Jonathan and Elizabeth (Wilson) Clark, was born 9 October (O.S.) 1725 in King and Queen County, Virginia, and died in August, 1799, at "Mulberry Hill," Jefferson County, Kentucky. He married, about 1749, Ann Rogers, daughter of John and Rachel (Eastham) Rogers, and migrated west, settling in Albemarle County, Virginia, on his half of an eight hundred and twenty acre plantation inherited jointly with his brother Benjamin from their father. Because of its remote location beyond the tidewater they returned to Caroline County about 1756-8 and in 1784 sold this home and came west, joining their son, George Rogers Clark, at Louisville, Jefferson County, Kentucky, in March, 1785.³ Here their home was "Mulberry Hill."⁴ Ann (Rogers) Clark was born 21 October 1728 in King and Queen County, Virginia, and died 24 December 1798 at "Mulberry Hill," where she and her husband are buried in unmarked graves. The will of John Clark was written 24 July

1799 and proved 1 October 1799. It is recorded in Jefferson County Will Book 1, page 86.⁵

The children of John and Ann (Rogers) Clark were:

(2-1) General Jonathan Clark, born 12 August 1750. (See following.)

(2-2) General George Rogers Clark, born 19 November 1752 and died 13 February 1818 at "Locust Grove," Jefferson Co., Ky., the home of his sister, Lucy Croghan.⁶

(2-3) Ann Clark, born 14 July 1755 and died 3 October 1822. She married, 20 October 1773, Owen Gwathmey.

(2-4) Captain John Clark, born 15 September 1757. He served in the Revolutionary Army in a Virginia regiment and with his brother, Edmund, was captured by the British at Germantown. Edmund was released but John was held prisoner on Long Island prison ships until his exchange in 1782. On 29 October 1783 he died of pneumonia contracted at this time.

(2-5) Lieutenant Richard Clark, born 6 July 1760. He served in the Revolutionary Army also and is supposed to have been killed by Indians on the Little Wabash, in March, 1783, when on his way from Kaskaskia to Vincennes.

(2-6) Captain Edmund Clark, born 25 September 1762. He came to Louisville with his brother, Jonathan, in 1802 and became a trustee of the town. To him we owe the preservation of such records as we now have of the first twenty-odd years of Louisville's history. He died 11 March 1815.

(2-7) Lucy Clark, born 15 September 1765 and died in April, 1838. She married, 17 July 1789, Major William Croghan.

(2-8) Elizabeth Clark, born 11 February 1768 and died 15 January 1795. She married, 24 November 1787, Colonel Richard Clough Anderson.

(2-9) General William Clark, born 1 August 1770 and died 1 September 1838. He married first, 5 January 1808, Julia Hancock, and second, 23 November 1821, Mrs. Harriet K. Pollard.

(2-10) Frances Eleanor Clark, born 20 January 1773 and died 19 June 1825. She married first, February, 1791, Dr. James O'Fallon; second, 19 January 1796, Captain Charles Mynn Thruston, and third, 13 May 1805, Judge Dennis Fitzhugh.

General JONATHAN CLARK, son of John and Ann (Rogers) Clark, was born in Albemarle County, Virginia, 12 August 1750, and died in Jefferson County,⁷ Kentucky, 25 November 1811.⁸ He served as deputy clerk of Spotsylvania County, Virginia, and in 1772 removed to Woodstock, Dunmore County (now Shenandoah), where he served for three years as deputy clerk.⁹ In 1775 he was elected a representative to two Revolutionary conventions, one held in Richmond in July and August, and the other in Williamsburg, in December and January, 1776.

During the Revolutionary War Jonathan Clark was captain of a company of riflemen with the Eighth Virginia Regiment, commanded by General Peter Muhlenburg. In March, 1776, they set forth for Charleston, South Carolina, and thence for Savannah and Sunbury, Georgia, returning to Virginia in December. In 1777 he marched north and was at the battles of Brandywine (11 September 1777), Germantown (4 October 1777), Monmouth (28 June 1778), and the attack on Paulus Hook in 1779. In that year he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Continental Army. On 12 May 1780 he surrendered at Charleston, South Carolina, with the army under General Lincoln, but was parolled in the spring of 1781. He was one of the original members of the Society of the Cincinnati in Virginia.¹⁰

On 13 February 1782 Jonathan Clark married Sarah Hite, daughter of Colonel Isaac and Eleanor (Eltinge) Hite. She was born 11 May 1758 in Frederick County, Virginia, and died in October, 1818, in Jefferson County, Kentucky. They were buried at "Mulberry Hill," and in 1868 reinterred in Cave Hill Cemetery, Louisville.¹¹

Following the war Jonathan Clark resided in Spotsylvania County, Virginia, and in 1793 was commissioned major general of the Virginia Militia forces. On 26 May 1802 he left that county for Kentucky, arriving in Louisville on 7 July. They made their home at "Trough Spring," adjoining the "Mulberry Hill" property.¹²

The children of Jonathan and Sarah (Hite) Clark were:

(3-1) Eleanor Eltinge Clark (1783-1867), married Benjamin Temple. (See following.)

(3-2) John Hite Clark, born 29 September 1785¹³ and died in the spring of 1820. He is now buried in Cave Hill Cemetery, Louisville.

(3-3) Isaac Clark, born 6 October 1787.¹⁴ On 17 May 1813 the heirs of his father deeded him the "Mulberry Hill" property of 232 acres. He lived there until 1863 when, as a result of the emancipation of his slaves, he felt he was too old to struggle with new conditions and moved to the home of his brother, Dr. William Clark, in Louisville. He died there 27 January 1868. (See Footnote 4.)

(3-4) Mary Clark, born 30 March 1790 and died 5 July 1791. She was buried 29 July 1791.¹⁵

(3-5) Ann Clark (1792-1833), married James Anderson Pearce. (See following.)

(3-6) Doctor William Clark (1795-1879), married Frances Ann Tompkins. (See following.)

(3-7) George Washington Clark (1798-1883), married Martha A. Price. (See following.)

ELEANOR ELTINGE CLARK, daughter of Jonathan and Sarah (Hite) Clark, was born 5 September 1783¹⁶ and died in 1867. She married, 14 October 1801,¹⁷ in Virginia, The Reverend Benjamin Temple, son of Benjamin and Molly Brook (Baylor) Temple. He was an Episcopal minister, born in 1776 and died in 1836. His will was dated 23 April 1827 and proved 28 May 1838. It mentions land in Ohio, Warren, Hopkins and Barren counties, Kentucky, and gives estate to wife and children (naming only daughter Sarah Lee, however).¹⁸

The children of Benjamin and Eleanor Eltinge (Clark) Temple were:

(4-1) Mary Ann Brooke Temple (-), married Henry K. Winbourn. (See following.)

(4-2) Sarah B. Temple, born in 1805 and died in 1899. She married Lewis W. Lee but left no children.¹⁹

(4-3) Eleanor Eltinge Temple (1808-1844), married Josiah Newman. (See following.)

(4-4) Julia Hancock Temple, born in 1809 and died in infancy.

(4-5) Jonathan Clark Temple (1812-), married first Frances Brashear, and second Eliza Wallace Page. (See following.)

(4-6) Robert Temple (1815-), married Anne Carrington Wills. (See following.)

(4-7) John Baylor Temple (1815-1886), married first Susan M. Bibb, second Catherine Marrania Fall, and third Blandina Brodhead. (See following.)

(4-8) Reverend James Norton Temple (1818-1900), married first Margaret Anderson McMahan, and second Narcissa Hambleton Barksdale. (See following.)

(4-9) George William Temple, born in 1819 and died in infancy.

(4-10) Elizabeth Ann Temple (1821-1907), married Reverend George Beckett. (See following.)

(4-11) Lucy Croghan Temple (1824-1900), married Judge Robert Chatham Bowling. (See following.)

ANN CLARK, daughter of Jonathan and Sarah (Hite) Clark, was born 19 May 1792²⁰ in Virginia and died 18 July 1833. On 30 September 1810,²¹ in Louisville, Kentucky, she married James Anderson Pearce, son of Edmund and Mary (Anderson) Pearce. He was born 19 October 1777 in Virginia and died 18 November 1825 at "Trough Spring," Jefferson County, Kentucky.²² His will was written 21 September 1825 and proved 5 December 1825. It is recorded in Jefferson County Will Book 2, page 307.²³ They resided at "Trough Spring," but were buried at "Mulberry Hill," and in 1868 reinterred in Cave Hill Cemetery, Louisville.

The children of James A. and Ann (Clark) Pearce were:

(4-1) Sarah Pearce (1811-1850), married Henry William Vick. (See following.)

(4-2) Edmund Pearce (1813-1889), married first Myra Steele, and second Mrs. Mary (Wood) Grinnell. (See following.)

(4-3) Mary Pearce (1815-1878), married Judge William Fontaine Bullock. (See following.)

(4-4) Ellen Pearce (1817-1894), married Judge William Stewart Bodley. (See following.)

(4-5) Martha Pearce (1820-1894), married first Robert Craig Stanard, and second James Robb. (See following.)

(4-6) Jonathan Clark Pearce (1822-1895), married Francena Low. (See following.)

(4-7) Eliza Anderson Pearce (1824-1904), married Judge George Blackburn Kinkead. (See following.)

(4-8) James Ann Pearce, born 18 May 1826 near Louisville, Kentucky, and died in that city, 19 May 1912. She married Henry Clay Pindell on 23 April 1846 in Vicksburg, Mississippi.²⁴ He was the son of Thomas Hart and Mary (Edmiston) Pindell, and was born 28 July 1823 in Lexington, Kentucky. In 1855 they came to Louisville and he entered law partnership with his brother-in-law, Judge William S. Bodley. Too close application to his practice made serious inroads into his health and he was forced to leave it, accepting the position of cashier in the Northern Bank of Kentucky and later that of cashier of the Falls City Tobacco Bank. In 1869 he retired and spent a number of years in Europe, upon his return resuming practice. He was attorney and vice-president of the Louisville, Paducah and Southwestern Railroad and a director of the Louisville Exposition. Mr. Pindell was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Louisville. He died 8 March 1882 in Louisville, and he and his wife are buried in Lexington, Kentucky.²⁵

Doctor WILLIAM CLARK, son of Jonathan and Sarah (Hite) Clark, was born 13 November 1795²⁶ near Fredericksburg, Virginia, and died 3 February 1879 in Louisville, Kentucky. On 17 February 1825, in Jefferson County, Kentucky, he married Frances Ann Tompkins,²⁷ daughter of Robert and Frances (Marshall) Tompkins. She was born 4 July 1807 and died 10 September 1852.²⁸

Dr. Clark was educated in Philadelphia and graduated from Jefferson Medical College. He practiced for a short while in Florence, Alabama, and then moved to Fayette County, Kentucky, and farmed until about 1835 when he came to Jefferson County. He moved into the city of Louisville about fifteen years before his death. Dr. Clark was founder of Clark Lodge of F. and A. Masons and continued a member all his life.²⁹

The children of William and Frances (Tompkins) Clark were:

(4-1) Frances Ann Clark (1826-), married first Samuel Lawson, and second Mr. Biddle. (See following.)

(4-2) Jonathan Clark (1827-1889), married Emma Calhoun Noble. (See following.)

(4-3) Mary Jane Clark, born in 1829 and died in 1830.

(4-4) Ellen Temple Clark (1832-), married Newton Elijah Milton. (See following.)

(4-5) Mary Jane Clark (1833-1909), married Dr. George E. Cooke. (See following.)

(4-6) Katherine Anderson Clark, born 8 June 1837 and died 8 September 1872.³⁰ She married, 19 October 1871, in Louisville, Kentucky,³¹ William Henry Churchill, son of Samuel and Abigail (Oldham) Churchill. He was born 14 September 1814 and died 27 December 1891. Colonel Churchill was a successful farmer. In 1840 he formed a partnership with his brother, John Churchill, which continued until his death. Together they farmed the present Churchill Downs property until 1863 when he moved to the city of Louisville. Since that time the city has extended its boundaries until they run far south of the race track. Much of the success of this track is due to his and his brother's interest. Colonel Churchill married second, in 1876, Julia (McWilliams) Prentice, widow of Clarence Prentice. He had no children.³²

(4-7) Eugenia C. Clark, born 22 July 1838 and died 2 March 1897 in Louisville, Kentucky.

(4-8) Robert Tompkins Clark, born in 1840 and died in 1841.

(4-9) Eliza Pearce Clark, born 22 October 1842 and died 26 February 1900 in Louisville, Kentucky.

(4-10) William Clark (1848-1911), married Ann Thomas Bailey. (See following.)

GEORGE WASHINGTON CLARK, son of Jonathan and Sarah (Hite) Clark, was born 24 August 1798³³ and died in 1883. In 1822 he married Martha A. Price, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Ferguson) Price. She was born in November, 1804, in Lincoln County, Kentucky, and died in 1831.³⁴ In 1822 George W. Clark located in Fayette County, Kentucky, about five miles from Lexington. His will was written 23 January 1871 and proved 14 January 1884 in Fayette County.³⁵

The children of George Washington and Martha A. (Price) Clark were:

(4-1) Sarah Clark (1823-1904), married Jeremiah Early Rogers. (See following.)

(4-2) Ann Clark. She married William Bell of Lexington, Kentucky. They had no children.

(4-3) Elizabeth Clark (1825-1892), married John McMurtry. (See following.)

¹ It is hoped that at a later date other branches of the Clark family can be traced.

⁴ The Mulberry Hill tract contained 232 acres on the South Fork of Beargrass. At the death of John Clark it passed to his son, William, by the terms of his will. On 2 May 1803, before leaving on the celebrated expedition to the Northwest, he sold the property to his brother Jonathan (Jefferson Co., Ky. Deed Book 6, page 431). At the death of Jonathan it passed by sale of the heirs to his son, Isaac, then being valued at $17.00 per acre (Deed Book 10, pages 161-2). The house was built in 1784 for John Clark. At the death of Isaac Clark the Daily Democrat, of Louisville, 28 January 1868, carried an obituary containing the following description:

"It is a two-story double log house, nearly opposite Spring Garden, and is doubtless the oldest building in Jefferson County. Very near a century has elapsed since its construction, and its sides still bear the marks of Indian bullets and tomahawks. There the venerable Colonel resided, surrounded by the mementoes of his youth, and glorying in the recollection of the olden time. He had carefully preserved all the original furniture that was brought from Virginia through the wilderness, and the antique bedsteads and bureaus form a striking contrast to the tawdry finery with which we adorn our fashionable houses. He even kept the backgammon board that his father and uncle had used before this century was ushered in."

In addition he had preserved his mother's Bible, spectacles, toweling and bedding. Afterward the house was used for storing farm products and was removed in 1917 when the ground became a part of Camp Zachary Taylor. In 1921, forty-three acres of the Mulberry Hill property were purchased by Charles T. and S. Thruston Ballard and their brother R. C. Ballard Thruston. It is now known as The George Rogers Clark Park.

DESCENDANTS OF GENERAL JONATHAN CLARK

JEFFERSON COUNTY, KENTUCKY

1750 - 1811

By JOHN FREDERICK DORMAN, III

Louisville, Kentucky

Part II

DESCENDANTS OF JAMES A. AND ANN (CLARK) PEARCE

Ann Clark, daughter of General Jonathan and Sarah (Hite) Clark, married James Anderson Pearce, 30 September 1810. Their children were:

SARAH PEARCE, daughter of James Anderson and Ann (Clark) Pearce, was born 6 August 1811 near Louisville, Kentucky, and died 4 May 1850 in Vicksburg, Mississippi.³⁶ In February, 1832, in Jefferson County, Kentucky,³⁷ she married Colonel Henry William Vick, son of Major Burwell Vick, one of the original settlers and founders of Vicksburg. Colonel Vick was born in North Carolina and died in Louisville, Kentucky, 17 April 1861.³⁸ He was a cotton planter of Vicksburg.

The children of Henry William and Sarah (Pearce) Vick, all of whom but Mary died before 1868,³⁹ were:

(5-1) James Pearce Vick.

(5-2) William Vick.

(5-3) Henry Gray Vick. He was killed in a duel.

(5-4) Ann Pearce Vick, born 22 February 1833 and died 4 September 1855.⁴⁰

(5-5) Susan Vick.

(5-6) Mary Bullock Vick, born 3 August 1843 in Vicksburg, and died 5 February 1901⁴¹ at Nitta Yuma, Washington County, Mississippi. On 18 October 1865 in Louisville, Kentucky, she married Doctor Alonzo Jefferson Phelps, son of Doctor Orlando John and Nancy (Watkins) Phelps. He was born 17 June 1825 in Piketown, Ohio, and died 28 September 1897 at Nitta Yuma, Mississippi. Doctor Phelps graduated in medicine at Columbia, Ohio, and New York City, and settled in Louisville, Kentucky. They later lived at Nitta Yuma, the plantation and estate of his wife.⁴²

The children of Alonzo Jefferson and Mary Bullock (Vick) Phelps are:

(6-1) Nannie Watkins Phelps, born 24 July 1867 at Louisville, Kentucky, and died 24 September 1901 at Nitta Yuma, Mississippi. She married, 20 January 1892, Peter George of Scotland. Their children were:

(7-1) Alonzo Phelps George, born 19 April 1898 in Chicago, Illinois.

(7-2) Nannie Phelps George, born 12 September 1901 in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and died in February, 1903.

(6-2) Henry Vick Phelps, born 21 April 1868 in New York City. On 13 December 1903 he married Mary Helen Smiley of Saint Louis, Missouri.

(6-3) Mary Pearce Phelps, born 28 January 1871 in New York City, and died 14 December 1943 at Vicksburg, Mississippi. On 25 July 1894 at Nitta Yuma, Mississippi, she married Count Renato Piola Caselli, son of Carol Piola Caselli and Teresa Costabili Piola Caselli. He was born 14 November 1866 at Livorno, Italy, and died 11 November 1948. Count Piola Caselli represented the Italian government at the World's Fair at Chicago in 1893 and was a general in the Italian army. He resided at Serravalle, Arezzo, Italy.⁴³

The children of Renato and Mary Pearce (Phelps) Piola Caselli are:

(7-1) Mary Vick Piola Caselli, born 6 May 1895 in Rome, Italy. She is unmarried, and resided with her father until his death.

(7-2) Renato Piola Caselli, born 3 February 1900. On 18 June 1934 he married Sybil Francis. She was born 29 April 1910. He volunteered in the Italian army during World War I, but in 1919 returned to the United States and has resided at Nitta Yuma, Mississippi, since then. They had one child.

(8-1) Carlo Piola Caselli, born in 1948.

Besides their own son, Renato and Sybil (Francis) Piola Caselli have two adopted children, Sandra Lee Piola Caselli (born 15 April 1943) and a boy (born 1946).

(7-3) Teresa Piola Caselli, born 8 November 1904 in Rome, Italy. On 30 January 1928 in Naples, Italy, she married Marchese Livio D'Ayala Valva, son of Francesco D'Ayala Valva and Teresa Zezza D'Ayala Valva. He was born 17 July 1901 at Naples and is a lawyer for the Banco di Napoli.

The children of Livio and Teresa (Piola Caselli) D'Ayala Valva are:

(8-1) Teresa D'Ayala Valva, born 15 November 1929 at Naples, Italy.

(8-2) Renato D'Ayala Valva, born 28 September 1931 at Naples.

The first of these is the fact that the system of taxation is not uniform. The rate of tax varies from 10 to 20 per cent, and the amount of tax varies from 10 to 20 per cent of the value of the property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular. The second defect is that the system is not based on the principle of equality. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular.

The third defect is that the system is not based on the principle of justice. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular. The fourth defect is that the system is not based on the principle of efficiency. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular.

The fifth defect is that the system is not based on the principle of simplicity. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular. The sixth defect is that the system is not based on the principle of transparency. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular.

The seventh defect is that the system is not based on the principle of fairness. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular. The eighth defect is that the system is not based on the principle of equity. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular.

The ninth defect is that the system is not based on the principle of proportionality. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular. The tenth defect is that the system is not based on the principle of consistency. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular.

The eleventh defect is that the system is not based on the principle of predictability. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular.

The twelfth defect is that the system is not based on the principle of stability. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular.

The thirteenth defect is that the system is not based on the principle of flexibility. The rate of tax is not the same for all classes of property, and the amount of tax is not the same for all classes of property. This is a very serious defect, and it is one of the reasons why the system is not popular.

The American Medical Association was organized at Chicago, Ill., June 15, 1887, and has since that time been the leading organization of the medical profession in this country. It has a membership of over 100,000 physicians and surgeons, and its journal, the Journal of the American Medical Association, is one of the most widely read and influential medical publications in the world. The Association's primary purpose is to advance the science and art of medicine, and to protect the public interest by promoting the highest standards of medical practice. It accomplishes these ends through its various departments, which include the publication of the Journal, the holding of annual meetings, the maintenance of a library, and the conduct of various other activities. The Association is also engaged in a wide range of public affairs, and it has been instrumental in the passage of many important laws and regulations. Its efforts have been directed towards the improvement of medical education, the regulation of the medical profession, and the advancement of the health of the people. The Association's work is of the highest importance, and it is the duty of every physician and surgeon to support it in its efforts to advance the science and art of medicine.

The following table shows the results of the experiments conducted on the effect of the concentration of the solution on the rate of reaction. The rate of reaction was measured by the volume of gas evolved per unit time.

Concentration of solution (M)	Rate of reaction (cm ³ gas / min)
0.1	1.2
0.2	2.4
0.3	3.6
0.4	4.8
0.5	6.0

From the above table, it can be seen that the rate of reaction increases linearly with the concentration of the solution. This indicates that the reaction is first order with respect to the concentration of the solution.

Concentration of solution (M)	Rate of reaction (cm ³ gas / min)
0.1	1.2
0.2	2.4
0.3	3.6
0.4	4.8
0.5	6.0

The following table shows the results of the experiments conducted on the effect of the temperature on the rate of reaction. The rate of reaction was measured by the volume of gas evolved per unit time.

Temperature (°C)	Rate of reaction (cm ³ gas / min)
20	1.2
30	2.4
40	4.8
50	9.6

From the above table, it can be seen that the rate of reaction increases exponentially with the temperature. This indicates that the reaction is highly sensitive to changes in temperature.

The following table shows the results of the experiments conducted on the effect of the surface area of the solid reactant on the rate of reaction. The rate of reaction was measured by the volume of gas evolved per unit time.

(5-1) Edward Tilford Gross, died in infancy.

(5-2) Edward Tilford Gross, born in 1853 and died in 1904. He married Clara Kerr. Their child was:

October issue, page 298, line 8: Anderson Gratz was a son of Henry Howard and Minerva Campbell (Anderson) Gratz. He was educated at the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical College (now the University of Kentucky) and upon graduation joined engineers then surveying the line of the Southern Railway between Cincinnati and Chattanooga. The following year he went to Saint Louis where he presently formed the partnership of Warren, Jones & Gratz which did business under this name for fifty-two years. In the meantime, Mr. Gratz moved to New York where, in 1889, he organized and managed the American Manufacturing Company with plants in Saint Louis, Charleston, Philadelphia, Manila and Calcutta for the manufacture of twine, rope, yarn and jute bagging. He retired in 1928 and died in Lexington, Kentucky, 3 August 1935. He married first on 9 February 1876 in Saint Louis, Missouri, Laura Cary Bodley.

Anderson Gratz was a lineal descendant of Colonel Miles Cary of Virginia (1620-1667), of Christopher Gist who explored Kentucky for the Ohio Company in 1750-1755, and of Michael Gratz, merchant of Philadelphia, who outfitted many of the early expeditions west of the Colonies.
